

Media Release

Date: 9 April 2019

---

CALL FOR APPLICATIONS FOR RVTS' AMS STREAM

The Remote Vocational Training Scheme (RVTS) is calling for applications for doctors in Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Services to undertake vocational training.

RVTS' AMS Stream has an intake of 10 doctors annually who train towards fellowship qualifications of the RACGP and/or ACRRM.

Some of the AMS Stream positions have already been filled while those currently vacant will commence in August 2019.

RVTS' three to four-year program allows doctors to access training while they continue to provide general medical services to their communities, bringing benefits to both the doctors and community.

RVTS has two streams of trainees - the Remote Stream, for doctors working in remote and rural Australia, and the AMS Stream, providing support specifically for doctors in Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Services (ACCHS) and certain eligible State and Territory health services.

The training is fully supported and includes webinars, education workshops, remote supervision and individualised training advice.

To find out more or to apply, go to <https://rvts.org.au/applicants>

ENDS

Media inquiries: Sue Beattie, phone 0417 533 962